Engaging Minds: Interactive Moments from the Orientation

1. Ice-Breaker: "Name Adjective"

To start the interaction, the first activity was an ice-breaking game called "Name Adjective." Each student had to introduce themselves by saying their first name along with an adjective that best described their personality. For example, "Confident Kritika" or "Joyful Rohan." This light-hearted session not only helped students remember each other's names but also gave them a chance to describe their personalities creatively. Laughter and curiosity filled the hall as students came up with unique adjectives, which created an atmosphere of openness and camaraderie.

2. Dumb Charades – A Fun Challenge

The energy level went a notch higher with the second activity – Dumb Charades. Students were divided into small groups and were asked to act out movie names while their teammates guessed them. The activity was full of hilarious moments as students tried to act in the most creative ways possible. The room echoed with cheers, claps, and bursts of laughter, making the environment lively and enjoyable. This game truly helped the participants relax and feel like a part of the larger MBA family.

Students found the session informative and motivating, as it gave them clarity about what to expect in the coming two years.

4. Team Building Exercise

To strengthen bonding among the new students, a team-building exercise was conducted. Students were divided into groups of four to five, and each group was given a questionnaire filled with thought-provoking and interesting questions. The teams were required to collaborate, discuss their answers, and finally appoint a leader who would represent and present the team's response.

This activity not only enhanced interaction among the freshers but also showcased their leadership skills, decision-making abilities, and group coordination. Many teams came up with creative answers and displayed enthusiasm, making the session both productive and entertaining.

5. Pictorial Guessing Game

The final activity of the day was the Pictorial Guessing Game, in which participants were shown images related to songs, riddles, movies, and brand logos. The teams had to guess the correct answer as quickly as possible.
